When you want to buy direct from the producers, you don't have to drive miles; farmers and producers come to a town or village near you.

Farmers' markets are one of the food success stories of our times, selling a wide variety of their own produce direct to you. Held in venues from market squares to village halls, ancient abbeys to city centres, they're atmospheric, lively and a great way to shop.

Here's a list of regular farmers' markets in the county (details correct at time of going to press).
